The neo-Freudian school of psychiatrists and psychologists were a group of loosely linked American theorists/writers of the mid-20th century "who attempted to restate Freudian theory in sociological terms and to eliminate its connections with biology." f0487cd553 Geleerd was married to fellow psychoanalyst Rudolph Loewenstein from 1946 until her death; they had one child. She developed a reputation as a particularly skilled and empathetic clinician, described as having a "sensitive, searching, and romantic" temperament; she was also regarded as an independent thinker who would present her ideas forcefully even when their topics were sensitive enough for other psychoanalysts to avoid. Living with chronic illness for much of her adult life, Geleerd died at the age of 60 in New York in 1969. f0487cd553

Elisabeth Geleerd Born to an upper-middle-class family in Rotterdam, Geleerd studied psychoanalysis in Vienna, then London, under Anna Freud. Building a career in the United States, she became one of the nation's major practitioners in child and adolescent psychoanalysis throughout the mid-20th century. Melanie Klein She was the primary figure in the development of object relations theory. Klein's work primarily focused on the role of ambivalence and moral ambiguity in human development. Introducing Melanie Klein, Icon Books, UK 2003 Hinshelwood, Robert, A Dictionary of Kleinian Thought, Free Association Books, UK 1989 Hinshelwood, Robert, Clinical Melanie Klein (; German: [kla?n]; née Reizes; 30 March 1882 – 22 September 1960) was an Austrian-British author and psychoanalyst known for her work in child analysis. The quality of resolution can inform the presence, absence, and/or type of distresses a person experiences later in life. In her theory, how the child resolves that split depends on the constitution of the child and the character of nurturing the child experiences. Klein suggested that pre-verbal existential anxiety in infancy catalyzed the formation of the unconscious, which resulted in the unconscious splitting of the world into good and bad idealizations f0487cd553
