But as the pace of change keeps accelerating, it's worth taking a moment to mark the passing of the objects of our lives, from passbooks and pay phones to secretaries and skate keys. And to reflect on certain endangered phenomena that may be worth trying to hold on to—like privacy, or cash. Some we may already think of as ancient relics, like typewriters (and their accompanying bottles of correction fluid). A cultural catalog of everyday things rapidly turning into rarities—from landlines to laugh tracks. Other items, like MSG, not so much. So many things have disappeared from our day-to-day world, or are on the verge of vanishing. We may feel fond nostalgia for certain items of yore: encyclopedias, newspapers, lighthouses. Others seem like they were here just yesterday, like boom boxes and CDs. This thoughtful alphabetized compendium invites us to take a look at the many things, ideas, and behaviors that have gone the way of the subway token—and to reflect on what is ephemeral, and what is truly timeless 0c813e9ced

Focusing on one of humanity's most ubiquitous machines, Automotive Prosthetic: Technological Mediation and the Car in Conceptual Art combines critical theory and new media theory to form the first philosophical analysis of the car within works of conceptual art. These works are broadly defined to encompass a wide range of creative expressions, particularly in car-based conceptual art by both older, established artists and younger, emerging artists, including Ed Ruscha, Martha Rosler, Richard Prince, Sylvie Fleury, Yael Bartana, Jeremy Deller, and Jonathan Schipper. " This thought-provoking study illuminates the ways in which the automobile becomes a naturalized extension of the human body, incarnating new forms of "car art" and spurring a technological reframing of conceptual art. At its core, the book offers an alternative formation of conceptual art understood according to technology, the body moving through space, and what art historian, curator, and artist Jack Burnham calls "relations. In the twenty-first century, we are continually confronted with the existential side of technology—the relationships between identity and the mechanizations that have become extensions of the self. Steeped in a sophisticated take on the image and semiotics of the car, the chapters probe the politics of materialism as well as high/low debates about taste, culture, and art. The result is a highly innovative approach to contemporary intersections of art and technology 0c813e9ced

The result is a poignant, heart-achingly funny, scandalous, and deeply moving account of incomprehension, awe, dislocation, belonging, the sticky business of identity and the loss of it, sanity, and the loss of that. On a considered whim writer Karin Cronje packs up her life and flies across the world to teach English in a small Korean village. Characters like Dae-ho, her guru man, who reminds her to breathe; dazzling Mae and her bar, Goldfinger; Leona with her rattle snake tongue, and all the others she can't understand are now the people in her life. They, together with the tip of the African continent, are about to disappear into the sea. With her inimitable voice Karin Cronje shocks and delights as she digs deeply into the full catastrophe of being human. Back home is her son who has fallen in with a suspect character and her friends who now seem like dung beetles each rolling their own ball of muck. And that sure as hell feels inadequate. She has only herself 0c813e9ced

Some towns have as many as a dozen of churches built during various periods, by Sicilians known throughout the world as Italians. In each town and locality of Sicily are reminders of history, masterpieces of arts, and beauty of nature. During the frequent days of clear sky, the entire island of Sicily, the white Mount Etna, the mosaics of the Villa Romana, in Piazza Armerina, are among the oldest and most beautiful ancient mosaics in the world. In Petralia Soprana, my ancestors' town, is the Church of Saint Peter and Paul, where, among other magnificent religious arts, is located the first exceptionally admirable wooden crucifix sculpted by the their native sculptor, Gian Francesco Pintorno, also known as Frate Umile. Thanks to the archpriest Don Calogero la Placa, I found there documents of my ancestors back to the year 1570. Visiting Sicily is stepping on a piece of real estate set by nature in the most desirable part of the Mediterranean Sea. Churches like the Saint Peter and Paul of Petralia Soprana are awaiting to be discovered by the world's tourists in most small and big towns of Sicily; and so are innumerable masterpieces of Sicilian archeology, architectures, arts, literature, folklore, and not to be forgotten, there awaiting are the hospitality and cuisine of the Sicilian people. The various castles of the Ventimiglia in a number of Sicilian towns, and particularly the sumptuous Castle of Castelbuono and the Castle of Enna, the picturesque castle of Pietraperzia, to name a few, are among the most outstanding works of architecture in the world. Sicilian arts can be admired in the cathedrals of Montreal, Cefalu, Palermo, and Catania, among many other cities. The church was found on the fourteenth century and contains archives with documents dated since its foundation 0c813e9ced
